Mr. Cave if he wishes broader field of operation.

[illegible]

where I am today, although that this ordinance in its main intention would be approved by the vast majority of business men, that the feature thereof creating a distinction between permanent and transient business was a doubtful utility and would not stand the test of the public if thought of as being, however, to amount to it as a matter of civil protection, to a certain extent, for that class of permanent citizens who would be on all the year-round business and who find that the lameness and its ailments here during the bright seasons only and shirk off to the coast and then hit themselves to summer resorts there to repeat the operation, should pay for the privilege. Personally I feel no interest in that feature of the ordinance but was willing to concede it to the permanent business people even if it might be of doubtful legality.

I am advised that the ordinance under consideration cannot become effective for the present. Next year and therefore is just now of no practicable or immediate value. Its delayed birth is beyond the reach of anything else.

So much ill feeling has been aroused in the community against this or any other occupational tax ordinance that its enforcement will not meet with a cheerful acquiescence.

In the interest of peace and harmony among our people I have decided to withhold my approval of said ordinance and herewith return it with recommendations. If my reasons for doing so meet your approval then the ordinance approved September 3, 1908, will still be in force and the matter will be as unsettled as it would be should you sustain the ordinance as it now stands.

There seems to be no degree of difference in the general hostility to either of these ordinances.

I therefore recommend that the final vote on this ordinance, taken November 27, be reconsidered, and then amended as follows:

1st. That all of the ordinance of Nov. 27, 1918, after the enacting clause, be stricken out.

2nd. The ordinance described in the caption thereof, approved Sept. 2, 1908, be amended by striking out all after the enacting clause.

If the course here indicated be pursued there will then be no occupational license tax in force in the city, the old ordinance tax having been repealed, and, pace will once more prevail in the municipality; the temper in the teapot will subside; the city will be wide open to all comers; the merchant whose business is through the whole year, whose interests are all in Daytona, and for whose property he is ever working, will take pot-luck with all comers, and have protection against the horde of peddlers and dealers who will flock in to skim off the cream of the winter trade. As my friend Rowe says, it is a case of hustle and survival of the fittest. The treasury may run still shorter of funds; the rough streets may shake the day-lights out of the winter tourists as they bump their big cars over them; the dust may fill their eyes on every windy day and destroy the fine wares exhibited in the shops and stores of the merchants because of the lameness of the public treasury, but the great principle of government by the consent of the governed will not be lost sight of forever.

The Mayor has been blamed and cursed and damned for the inception and passage of these ordinances. He disclaims any such distinction. It would be discourteous to the Council to entertain any such theory.

It is a matter of municipal history that when he entered upon the duties as Mayor he recommended to the Council that the laws regulating circuses,

BIG SHOWING FOR HOLLY HILL.

The Christianity-Wilson grove of Holly Hill is the scene of activities these days that remind one of the good old times, prior to the great freeze, from which so many groves are still dated.

In the past five weeks this firm have shipped twelve solid cars of oranges, from one to three or four cars per week.

They have done a large business in grapefruit also, having sent out 564 boxes of this popular citrus fruit.

In addition to all this they have made 250 local shipments of from one to several boxes, in the aggregate a big shipment.

All their fruit is now shipped, but their King oranges and Hart's Late probably 250 boxes, of the latter.

Their grapefruit crop was short this year. They have trees enough to give a crop of 2000 or more boxes and they hope to have a different story to tell next year.

L. Kennedy is in charge of their Holly Hill grove and also Port Orange grove.

Annis.

(By United Press.)

FLUSHING, L. I., Dec. 15—With half of the jury selected for the trial of Thornton Jenkins Haines, accused of complicity in the murder of William E. Annis, the task of weeding out was resumed this morning before Justice Crane.

The prisoner and Justice Crane were the only ones connected with the trial who did not bear any marks of the strain of the session of the previous day.

Two other jurors, Alexander Jardine, plumber, and Hough McCullough, milk dealer, were today selected, making eight in all.

Notice.

In yesterday's daily Mr. Douglass advertised that he has severed his connection with the Daytona Bakery. As so few people were aware of any connection other than wages, I wish to say that I bought the Daytona Bakery of H. E. Quigg, Dec. 1st, '08, and started out under the name of Lilly & Douglass with my capital.

Mr. Quigg has taken half interest, and will do the baking.

As to the bills, we have the "dough" (both kinds) to pay them.

Notice is hereby given that I am no longer connected with the Daytona Bakery, and will not be responsible for debts.

PRINCE OF WALES TAKING REIGN.

(By United Press.)
LONDON, Dec. 15.—From sources of unquestioned reliability it is learned today that both the royal family and the physicians attending King Edward are deeply concerned over his majesty's condition.

Nothing but reassuring notes are given to the public but the king's health is such that the mask must soon be thrown aside and the grievous facts admitted. That the king realizes his illness is shown by the fact that he is rapidly throwing many of his governmental responsibilities to the shoulders of the Prince of Wales. Under the physician's orders, all royal engagements have been cancelled.

A Daily News reporter dropped in to visit Cave at his Month Beach cigar factory and found him making a force being rolled the famous wood best for every tempting-looking house. He was satisfied with the work he was doing and looked out for his business.

This new man arrived yesterday, a short stockman, from St. Augustine, and even came in today from Tampa and his mother, with the same clothing as he, before he left his business. At the middle of January Mr. Cave expects to be operating with about twenty-five or thirty workers. He would have a larger force now, but is waiting for the close of the holiday season as most of the workmen to secure him employment till that time.

Mr. Cave proposes to use only straight goods, which will sell readily in their merits. The general distributing point for his output will be Chicago, and the Porto Rico Export Co. is the firm that will handle his goods. He can easily handle his entire output, and it is his hope to enlarge and grow to such proportions as to do a big local business besides.

An excellent home trade would give him great encouragement, and he will cater to it, and will put out signs of such quality as to fully warrant local merchants in handling his stock. Mr. Cave wants, as far as possible, to identify himself with his home people, to supply the home market, and to employ largely home help, and the money will be largely turned over and over at home.

He has had as many as forty applications from local people, mostly Daytona and Port Orange girls, who want to earn the trade, and it is Mr. Cave's purpose to give them the opportunity, as girls soon become adepts in the art of shaping the smokers. The cigar manufacturing business is one of very few where women receive wages upon the same scale as men.

There are cigars smoked in Daytona, says Mr. Cave, in sufficient numbers to require the services of twenty men in their manufacture were they made here. It is a well known fact that cigar workers spend their salaries largely where they live. It is easy to see the advantage to Daytona of building up as large a manufacturing here as possible. Daytona is proud of being one of the most popular tourist towns in Florida and hopes always to maintain the easy lead she enjoys, but she can profit still more largely by securing as adjuncts those business enterprises which create and distribute wealth the year round.

Florida cigars already have a reputation, are regarded as superior to the Porto Rico products, and no trouble is anticipated in selling all that can be made on the reputation the state has established for smokers of pleasing flavor and aroma.

One of the great advantages of a factory here rather than in Porto Rico or Cuba is the facility with which orders can be rushed to consuming quarters. The delay of ordering by boat and receiving shipments by boat is worth considering.

Mr. Cave was two years in Porto Rico and Cuba as purchasing agent for the Porto Rico Export Co. and handled over 1,000,000 cigars a year. He paid $340 to $360 a week for revenue stamps alone.

The first consignment of sample boxes has arrived and Daytona's new product is being packed ready for distribution.

Prominent citizens are interested in the enterprise and two schemes have been suggested to Mr. Cave if he wishes to branch out on a broader field of operations. A number of prominent men of means are discussing the feasibility of a

The Chinese diplomat regarded the grilled frogs' legs with great interest. "I suppose they are good," he commented. "It is hard to recognize my reputation as a food lover, but they are class-class feeders, eh?"

The American laughed long and loud.

"You," he cried, "are supposed to be a frog's leg, you who eat dogs and cats!"

"But," said the Chinaman, "we eat dogs and cats and the cleanest feeders imaginable. They are equal to every fed duck or California peacock leg. They are confused in some way. You know, and I make no mistake."

FACTS TO BE REMEMBERED

THE MEN who are rich today were, in nine cases out of ten, poor in early life. Their earnings were at first very small. Expenses were still low; the difference was carefully saved. In some safe place, made to yield income, and thus to grow, they were slowly and securely laid for large accumulations. In this way that money has been so wisely used, by the comfort-loving owners and occupiers, to pay for the comfortable, broadened and hard-earned art treasures of our State.

"Luck," "good fortune" and "good stars" have had to do with it than many imagine. When a man begins less than he makes, his "good fortune" begins, his "luck" begins, and his "stars" look smilingly down upon him.

To the desert aborigine the chuck-waile is a burning. He fawns on the chuck-waile as he grows wise as to his habits. He takes a piece of strong wire or rope and ties it to the tail of the chuck-waile. He taps the chuck-waile on the side of the nose. In a moment the angrier reptile exhales a kind of hiss, the noise being made by a rapid expulsion of the breath. As he thus exhales he loses his hold on the rock, and falls to the ground. The Indian pursues him. As speedily as a flash of lightning the chuck-waile inhales again and tightens himself in his retreat. Another tap of his nose and then exhalation; another pull, another exhalation so it goes until at last the Indian has him. The chuck-waile is the "black salamander" of the Below fifty feet the temperature rises in the proportion of one degree for every sixty-five feet of depth except where currents of water carry the heat away. The result is that at a depth of about 4,000 feet we reach a temperature of 98 degrees, or blood heat. This renders it exceedingly difficult for work and life below that depth. This is the reason that Great Britain's coal consumption defied the miners are not workable below 4,000 feet.

Doings at Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 15.—Rev. Parker Shickle, D. D., delivered an excellent discourse Sunday morning at the M. E. church, in the presence of a large congregation. The theme was, "The New Birth." A vocal duet by the Misses Winifred and Allene Aman at the morning service and a vocal solo "Thy Will Be Done," by Miss Mattie Yelvington, at the evening service, were mentioned in complimentary terms by those present.

H. A. Ainsworth and wife arrived Sunday from Moline, Ill., and are comfortably installed as season guests at the Seaside Inn. Mr. Ainsworth brought his touring car along with him. He and his wife were here last winter, and know all about the opportunities our matchless beach and good roads offer for autoists.

C. E. Sparber went to DeLand today to be present at the convention of the Woodmen of the World.

Little Mabel Butler, the four old child of Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, who died at 4:00 o'clock yesterday morning, was laid away in the cemetery yesterday afternoon, in the presence of sympathizing friends. The body was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, grandparents of the child, yesterday morning, and from thence to the cemetery. The sorrowing parents and grandparents have the sincere sympathy of the community.

WANTED IN WISCONSIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—President Taft submitted to Congress a special message including a communication of findings by the Secretary of War, Luke E. Wright, on the Brown-sville shooting episode of August 12th and 13th, 1906.

The investigation of General Wright and fully corroborated the facts of the investigation and fix the guilt upon soldiers of Troop B. It is unquestionably established that Companies C and D had knowledge of the shooting.

In transmitting the Secretary of War's findings to Congress, the President, among other things says: "Moreover there are circumstances tending to show that these misguided men were encouraged by outsiders to persist in the course of disobedience and denial.

The President recommends that a law be passed allowing the Secretary of War power to reinstate any of the negro troops found to be innocent. Meanwhile, he says, the investigation into the affair will go on. Those whose guilt was beyond question will be dealt with in accordance with the law.

G. A. R.
Daytona, Fla. Dec. 14, 1908.

There will be an annual meeting of Joe Hooker Post, No. 9, Dept. of Fla., held at the City Hotel on Friday, Dec.
18th, at 7:30 p. m. All members should be present. Visiting comrades are invited. By order of
GEO. H. MATHEWS, Com.,
By T. H. Cave, Sr., Adj.

WANTED THEIR GOATS.

A Curious Adventure Among the Natives of Africa.

Mrs. Constance Larymore, author of "A President's Wife in Nigeria," recounts this curious adventure in Africa: "The sahib, as from innumerable Indian habit I still commonly call my husband, had gone out at sunset after dinner, and during his absence the entire population of the village came streaming up the hill to the rest house, all talking loudly and at once, and evidently under the influence of strong excitement. I was by that time well accustomed to creating a sensation whenever I appeared, no white woman had been seen previously, but these people struck me as having more than curiosity in their minds and on their cheerful faces. I had been six weeks in the country. My knowledge of Hansa was confined to salutations and a few simple words, so I summoned my interpreter to help me to entertain my visitors.

"They chattered, shouted and ges-ticated at Paul, who eventually explained to me smilingly that they had never seen a white woman before and were anxious to offer me a personal welcome. I nodded and smiled in high gratification, thanked them cordially and when I had exhausted my small stock of polite salutations told the interpreter to give them leave to go home. This they did, somewhat reluctantly, I thought, but after describing the interview with some amusement to the sahib I dismissed the matter from my mind.

"Six weeks later we passed through Lanka again on our way back to Lokoja and found it deserted—not a man, woman or child, not a goat, not a fowl —all gone, obviously fled into the bush.
I felt distinctly hurt at this childish behavior on the part of my late admirers and learned long afterward that on our first visit our precious interpreter and others of our party had seized and killed every goat and fowl in the village. The wretched owners had rushed up to the rest house to complain, and all they got was 'Thank you!'

"I am not ashamed to confess that I cried when I made that discovery. The lesson, however, went home to us both and drove us to work ceaselessly at the Hansa language, knowing there could be no security for ourselves or justice for the people until we could be independent of dishonest interpretation."

A Useful Key.
"What is this peculiar key on your typewriter? I never saw it on any before."
"Hist! My own invention. Whenever you can't spell a word you press this key and it makes a blur."—Boston Transcript.

AN INDIAN ATTACK.

One In Which Custer and a New York
Broker Were Mixed Up.

Charles Osborn, a New York broker, and General Custer were intimate friends, and Osborn annually visited the general at his camp on the plains.
During one of the Indian campaigns invited Osborn and a party of friends to Kansas and after giving them a buffalo hunt arranged a novel experience in the way of an Indian scare. As Osborn was lying in his tent one night firing was heard at the outposts and the rapid riding of pickets.
"Boots and saddles!" was the order in the disturbed atmosphere of the night, and Custer appeared to Osborn loaded with rifle, two revolvers, a saber and a scalping knife.

"Charles," he said in his quick, nervous way, "you must defend yourself.
Sitting Bull and Flen in Your Boots, with Wiggle Tail Jim and Scalp Lock Skowheban, are on us in force. I did not want to alarm you before, but the safety of my command is my first duty. Things look serious. If we don't meet again, God bless you!"

The broker fell on his knees. "Custer," he cried, "only get me out of this!
I'll carry a million shares of Western Union for you and let you into the firm to get me home! Only save me!"

But Custer was gone, and the camp by shrewd arrangement burst into a blaze, and shots, oaths and warwhoops were intermixed until suddenly a painted object loomed on Osborn's sight and something was flung into his face —a human scalp. He dropped to the ground and said the Lord's prayer backward and sideways until the noise died away and there was exposed a lighted supper table with this explanation on a transparency:
"Osborn's Treat!"

A REMINDER.

JUST before you leave the table,
Fold your napkin up the middle
And the ends together bring.
If so far you've done it rightly,
Roll it evenly and tightly,
And you'll be surprised how tightly
It will also fold.

The arrivals at the Daylight Hotel yesterday were: Mrs. Henry Curtis, Hastings, Mass.; Gustave Kapp, Chicago; W. H. Newcomb, Chicago.

Schmidt's Hotel.

As an abiding place for the newlyweds Schmidt's easily takes front rank.
It has been the shrine before which bridal couples have gathered for many months. The latest to spend their honeymoon here are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Russell, from Knoxville, Tenn., who will remain some weeks.

Charles R. Saunders, of Boston, and Tax Collector D. P. Smith, of New Smyrna, are also enjoying the hospitality of this popular house.

The Bennett.

W. J. Simpson and wife of York Harbor, Me., are at The Bennett. Mr.
Simpson is proprietor of the Ocean House at York Beach, Me.

Alexander Pightfoot, manager of the Casino at Palm Beach, is at The Bennett for a few days, the guest of H. E.
Houston. Mr. Pightfoot is owner and manager of the Stoneleigh Hotel, on Highland Lake, Bridgton, Me.

A group photograph of the guests of The Bennett was taken this afternoon.

Mrs. Geofrin's Husband.

Mrs. Geofrin, like most French-women, had the gift of making phrases.
When Rulhiere had read in her salon a work upon Russia, which she feared might involve him in difficulties, she offered him a sum of money to burn it.
The author waxed wroth at the insultation implied and broke out into an eloquent assertion of his courage and independence. She listened patiently and then in a quiet tone of voice said, "How much more do you want, M. Rulhiere?" She married at the age of fourteen M. Geofrin, a wealthy glass manufacturer and Lieutenant colonel of the national guard.
His duty as husband seems to have been to provide the funds for her social campaigns and to watch over the details of the menage. It is related of him that some person gave him a history to read and when he asked for the successive volumes regularly palmied off upon him the first, as if it were new. At last he was heard to say that he thought the author "repeated himself a little." A book printed in double columns he read straight across the page, remarking that "it seemed to be very good, but was rather abstract." One day a visitor inquired after the silent, white haired old gentleman who was in the habit of sitting at the head of the table.
"Oh, he was my husband," replied
Mrs. Geofrin, "before he died!"—

Birds That Make Incubators.

In the incubator the pale yellow chicks, their soft down not yet quite dry in places, fell in their attempts to rise and walk, like men dead drunk.
"There's another," said the chicken farmer as an excited little head came out of an egg. "Wonderful things, these incubators. Would you believe that there's a bird that makes them?"
"Yes, sir; a bird, the megapode, makes its own incubator every time it has a nest of eggs. It isn't bothered, like other birds, with the long and monotonous work of sitting.
"The megapode builds from Australia, the Barrier reef country. Its incubator is a simple affair, merely a great mound of leaves. In these leaves it buries its eggs, knowing that in that hot, moist climate the leaves will ferment and in their fermentation give off just enough heat to hatch the chicks.

"Who can deny intelligence to this bird, which makes its own incubator to hatch out its own eggs?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"Belling the Cat."

"Who will bell the cat?" is a curious old proverb, famous in parable and in history. The mice, says the parable, held a consultation how to secure themselves from the cat, and they resolved to hang a bell about the cat's neck to give warning when she approached, but after they had resolved on doing it they were as far off as ever, for who would do it?
Both parable and proverb have immortalized themselves in history.
When the Scottish nobles met at Stirling in a body they proposed to take Spence, the obnoxious favorite of James II., and hang him and so get rid of him.

"Ah," said Lord Grey, "that's very well said, but who'll bell the cat?"
"That will I," said the black Earl Angus. He undertook the task, accomplished it and was called "Archibald Bell the Cat," until his dying day.—

A great commotion followed its passage.
 An indignation meeting was held on Saturday in a room being made up for the purpose to express its little respect for the Council. The Council ordered the dissolution of an ordinance to that effect.
 The mayor suggested that a committee of one from each profession and business be appointed to present such a schedule as would be satisfactory to the citizens. Such a committee was organized and appeared before the council. It made no suggestions looking to a modification of the ordinance and, again, demanded its unconditional repeal.
 After the departure of the committee four members of the council, Messrs Mills, Clark, Osborne and Heymann, went over the whole schedule, reduced the rates on many occupations and cut out the cumulative and all other objectionable features which had been adapted from the Miami ordinance. The four agreed that it was in every way satisfactory to them and directed the amended ordinance to be presented to the council. It was presented, passed and ordered to be certified to the mayor for his approval. This is the history of the license ordinance in a nutshell.
 It appears that the judgment of the majority of the council was not satisfactory to 90 per cent of the license tax payers.
 If the recommendations above set forth are followed I fancy we will all survive this "wreck of matter and crush of worlds," and that at the February election a new mayor and a new council will be elected to receive the condemnations of their fellow citizens, as all who have gone before them have, in their turn, received.
 Such new council and mayor will no doubt fix up a schedule that will be eminently satisfactory, and may the blessings of Heaven be showered upon their unfortunate heads.
 Each mayor and each council, it seems, proves to be worse than their predecessors, no matter how well they try to serve the city and its people. One mayor and council are blamed by the capricious, uninvestigating observer as being too conservative and not accomplishing anything. Their successors try their hands at producing results and are condemned worse than the do-nothings. At the next election the wheel turns round and history again repeats itself.
 In conclusion let me say that I have been a careful observer of the proceedings of this and former councils for some years and am firm in the conviction that the City Council, as it was constituted on the 12th day of February, 1909, is the best, most progressive and conservative council the City of Day tons has had the good fortune to survive during that time. It has accomplished much good for the city, and although the maledictions of a few may be hurled against them, they will survive the shock, and our more conservative, substantial and progressive people will not fail to honor them with their good opinions. G. B. SEAMAN, Mayor.

The action suggested by Mayor Seaman was taken by the Council, and Daytona now has no occupation license or dinance stock company of say $30,000, and pushing the enterprise vigorously from the start.

Still another plan is to make it a popular stock company of quite modest shares and invite the public to make the subscription.

The factory is established and operating, and whether Mr. Cave operates single-handed or is associated with a limited number of capitalists, or with a large number of shareholders, the enterprise promises handsome returns.

Macon Thornton, of Ormond, was in the city Monday.

The J. C. Pell meat market, on North Ridgewood avenue, is doing a very satisfactory business.

Mrs. B. Mason came over from Hastings Sunday, and joined Mr. Mason here. They left this afternoon for Redland, where they will spend three or four days and then go on to Havana, Cuba, enroute to the Isle of Pines.

Miss Maggie Dooley, of Petoski Mich., arrived Saturday, and will spend the winter here with her aunt Mrs. P. J. Hawley on North Ridgewood avenue. This is Miss Dooley's first visit to Florida and she is delighted with the country.

Messrs. Hilyard and Holmoyd of the Prince George were interested Monday forenoon in the removal of a large sweetgum tree that stood too close proximity to the front of the building. There were also a number of interested spectators and directors of the work.

A political cartoon titled "CAN THEY KEEP HIM CAGED?". It depicts a man in a dark suit and bow tie, with a small tuft of hair, standing inside a cage. The cage is made of dark, heavy bars. A sign on the cage reads "THE CAGED". The man is looking out of the cage. The background is dark and textured. The cartoon is signed "J. J. 1937" in the bottom right corner.
